Item 4: Advisory Business

A. Description of the Advisory Firm

This firm has been in business since June 1999, the principal owner is 1320, Inc., which is solely owned by John J. Riley.

B. Types of Advisory Services

Cornerstone Investment Services, LLC (hereinafter "CIS") offers the following services to advisory clients:

Investment Supervisory Services

CIS offers ongoing portfolio management services based on the individual goals, objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance of each client. CIS creates an Investment Policy Statement for each client, which outlines the client's current situation (income, tax levels, and risk tolerance levels). Portfolio management services include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Investment strategy
- Asset allocation
- Risk tolerance
- Personal investment policy
- Asset selection
- Regular portfolio monitoring

CIS evaluates the current investments of each client with respect to their risk tolerance levels and time horizon. Risk tolerance levels are documented in the Investment Policy Statement, which is given to each client.

CIS seeks to provide that investment decisions are made in accordance with the fiduciary duties owed to its accounts and without consideration of CIS's economic, investment or other financial interests. To meet its fiduciary obligations, CIS attempts to avoid, among other things, investment or trading practices that systematically advantage or disadvantage certain client portfolios, and, accordingly, CIS's policy is to seek fair and equitable allocation of investment opportunities and transactions among its clients to avoid favoring one client over another over time. It is CIS's policy to allocate investment opportunities and transactions it identifies as being appropriate and prudent that might have a limited supply, among its clients on a fair and equitable basis over time.

CIS also offers non-discretionary services that do not include many of the services the Discretionary portfolio offers including Asset Selection, Asset Allocation, Investment Policy and others. The non-discretionary services include no-transaction fee trades, professional monitoring, and research, as available. Services also include operational and administrative services offered by our staff.

Investment Consulting

CIS offers investment consulting services which may include advice and analysis about individual securities and transactions in those securities.

Services Limited to Specific Types of Investments

CIS generally limits its investment advice and/or money management to mutual funds, equities, bonds, fixed income, debt securities, ETFs, REITs, insurance products including annuities, and government securities. CIS may use other securities as well to help diversify a portfolio when applicable.

C. Client Tailored Discretionary Services and Client Imposed Restrictions

CIS offers the same suite of services to all of its Discretionary clients. CIS will also evaluate the current investments of each client with respect to their risk tolerance levels and time horizon and proceed accordingly. CIS offers clients the ability to place restrictions on their advisory account(s). In general, the restrictions may include security type, specific securities, and cash balance requirement). Under certain situations a restriction may prevent the IAR from providing investment choices to meet a client's needs. In the event a restriction does impair the IARs ability to manage a portfolio effectively the client agreement may be terminated under the terms of the contract.

D. Wrap Fee Programs

A wrap fee program is an investment program where the investor pays one stated fee that includes management fees and transaction costs. Some wrap fee programs include administrative costs, postage and handling and regulatory fees. Currently, all CIS accounts are contained within the CIS-sponsored Wrap Fee Program.

CIS sponsors a wrap fee program where the investor pays one stated fee that includes management fees and transaction costs, but not fund expenses, and any other administrative fees, postage and handling or regulatory fees. For the wrap fee program sponsored by CIS, Charles Schwab & Co., Inc (Schwab) is used to affect all securities transactions. CIS manages the investments in the wrap fee program on a discretionary basis following one of several Models we have developed. Cornerstone decides which investments to buy and sell, at what price and when. CIS retains a portion of the wrap fee for its services. Please refer to our separate wrap brochure for information about our wrapfee program. The wrap fee program is only offered to clients that sign up for the Schwab Alliance and paperless documents services from Schwab, which are free of charge.

Non-Discretionary accounts are managed at the direction of the client. CIS does not take discretion in Non-

Discretionary accounts. The client instructs CIS which securities to buy and sell, when and at what price.

CIS has the following assets under management:

Payment of Investment Consulting Fees

Investment Consulting fees are paid via check, wire transfer or other negotiated method.

C. Clients Are Responsible For Third Party Fees

Clients utilizing CIS' wrap fee portfolio management should see the separate Wrap Fee Program Brochure for additional details regarding third party fees. Client accounts not participating in the wrap fee program are responsible for the payment of all third-party fees (i.e., custodian fees, commissions, brokerage fees, mutual fund fees, transaction fees, etc.). Those fees are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by CIS. Please see Item 12 of this brochure regarding broker/custodian.

Some foreign countries and ADR (American Depository Receipts) may have fees/taxes or charges on buys and sells. These are from the country of issue or the bank that holds the securities. These are pass-through fees. They pass through CIS to the investor. These are not a commission and CIS doesn't share in or benefit from these fees.

D. Prepayment of Fees

Fees that are collected in advance will be refunded based on the prorated amount of work completed at the point of termination and the total days during the billing period. Fees will be returned within fourteen days to the client via check or return to credit card.

E. Outside Compensation For the Sale of Securities to Clients

Neither CIS nor its supervised persons accept any compensation for the sale of securities or other investment products, including asset-based sales charges or service fees from the sale of mutual funds.

Item 6: Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side

CIS does not accept performance-based fees or other fees based on a share of capital gains on, or capital appreciation of, the assets of a client.

Item 7: Types of Clients

CIS generally provides investment advice to the following Types of Clients:

- ❖ Individuals
- ❖ High-Net-Worth Individuals
- ❖ Pension and Profit-Sharing Plans

CIS Retirement Plan Services are available to clients that are sponsors or other fiduciaries to Plans, including 401(k), 457(b), 403(b) and 401(a) plans. Participant directed defined contribution plans and defined benefit plans will not be offered money management services. They will be offered non-Fiduciary services. CIS will only offer its money management services to omnibus plans only, unless the plan is an owner only plan. In this case, the plan will be the client, not the owner/participant. Plans may or may not be subject to ERISA.

Minimum Account Size

CIS's minimum for wrap-fee accounts is $100,000. The minimum for non-discretionary investment supervisory services is $10,000. These minimums are negotiable.

Item 8: Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Investment Loss

A. Methods of Analysis and Investment Strategies

Methods of Analysis

CIS's methods of analysis include charting analysis, fundamental analysis, technical analysis, and cyclical analysis.

Charting analysis involves the use of patterns in performance charts. CIS uses this technique to search for patterns used to help predict favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Fundamental analysis involves the analysis of financial statements, the general financial health of companies, and/or the analysis of management or competitive advantages.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data; primarily price and volume.

Cyclical analysis involved the analysis of business cycles to find favorable conditions for buying and/or selling a security.

Investment Strategies

CIS uses long term trading, short term trading, ETF and options writing (including covered options, uncovered options, or spreading strategies).

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

B. Material Risks Involved

Methods of Analysis

Charting analysis strategy involves using and comparing various charts to predict long and short term performance or market trends. The risk involved in solely using this method is that only past performance data is considered without using other methods to crosscheck data. Using charting analysis without other methods of analysis would be making the assumption that past performance will be indicative of future performance. This may not be the case.

Fundamental analysis concentrates on factors that determine a company's value and expected future earnings. This strategy would normally encourage equity purchases in stocks that are undervalued or priced below their perceived value. The risk assumed is that the market will fail to reach expectations of perceived value.

Technical analysis attempts to predict a future stock price or direction based on market trends. The assumption is that the market follows discernible patterns and if these patterns can be identified then a prediction can be made. The risk is that markets do not always follow patterns and relying solely on this method may not work long term.

Cyclical analysis assumes that the markets react in cyclical patterns which, once identified, can be leveraged to provide performance. The risks with this strategy are two-fold : 1) the markets do not always repeat cyclical patterns and 2) if too many investors begin to implement this strategy, it changes the very cycles they are trying to take advantage of.

Investment Strategies

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Frequent trading, when done, can affect investment performance, particularly through increased brokerage and other transaction costs and taxes. With the use of complex products such as ETFs daily resets are a factor to consider in long term trading. CIS monitors the impact of daily resets of the ETFs in the correlation to the long-term return of ETFs to the index the ETFs tracks. CIS only uses EFTs that track an index on a one-to-one basis. CIS does not use ETFs that are known as "doubles" or "triples".

Short term trading, and options writing generally hold greater risk and clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any of those strategies.

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

C. Risks of Specific Securities Utilized

CIS generally seeks investment strategies that do not involve significant or unusual risk beyond that of the general domestic and/or international equity markets. However, it may utilize options writing and inverse ETFs which generally hold greater risk of capital loss and clients should be aware that there is a material risk of loss using any of those strategies.

Mutual Funds: Investing in mutual funds carries the risk of capital loss. Mutual funds are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency. You can lose money investing in mutual funds. All mutual funds have costs that lower investment returns. They can be of bond "fixed income" nature (lower risk) or stock "equity" nature (mentioned above).

Equity investment generally refers to buying shares of stocks by an individual or firms in return for receiving a future payment of dividends and capital gains if the value of the stock increases. There is an innate risk involved when purchasing a stock that it may decrease in value and the investment may incur a loss.

Treasury Inflation Protected/Inflation Linked Bonds: The Risk of default on these bonds is dependent upon the U.S. Treasury defaulting (extremely unlikely); however, they carry a potential risk of losing share price value, albeit rather minimal.

Fixed Income is an investment that guarantees fixed periodic payments in the future that may involve economic risks such as inflationary risk, interest rate risk, default risk, repayment of principal risk, etc.

Debt securities carry risks such as the possibility of default on the principal, fluctuation in interest rates, and counterparties being unable to meet obligations.

Stocks & Exchange Traded Funds (ETF): Investing in stocks & ETF's carries the risk of capital loss (sometimes up to a 100% loss in the case of a stock holding bankruptcy). Investments in these securities are not guaranteed or insured by the FDIC or any other government agency. CIS has an investment policy concerning the pre purchase selection and post purchase review of ETFs.

REITs have specific risks including valuation due to cash flows, dividends paid in stock rather than cash, and the payment of debt resulting in dilution of shares.

Precious Metal ETFs (Gold, Silver, Palladium Bullion backed "electronic shares" not physical metal): Investing in precious metal ETFs carries the risk of capital loss.

Long term trading is designed to capture market rates of both return and risk. Due to its nature, the long-term investment strategy can expose clients to various other types of risk that will typically surface at various intervals during the time the client owns the investments. These risks include but are not limited to inflation (purchasing power) risk, interest rate risk, economic risk, market risk, and political/regulatory risk, daily ETF resets.

Short term trading risks include liquidity, economic stability and inflation.

An Options writer may be assigned an exercise at any time during the period the option is exercisable. The writer of a covered call forgoes the opportunity to benefit from an increase in the value of the underlying interest above the option price, but continues to bear the risk of a decline in the value of the underlying interest. The writer of an uncovered call is an extremely risky position and may incur large or total losses if the value of the underlying interest increases above the exercise price.

Past performance is not a guarantee of future returns. Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

Item 9: Disciplinary Information

A. Criminal or Civil Actions

There are no Criminal or Civil Actions to report.

B. Administrative Proceedings

There are no administrative proceedings to report.

Item 10: Other Financial Industry Activities and

B. Registration as a Futures Commission Merchant, Commodity Pool Operator, or a Commodity Trading Advisor

Neither CIS nor its representatives are registered as a FCM, CPO, or CTA.

C. Relationships Material to this Advisory Business and Possible Conflicts of Interests

Representatives of CIS are insurance agents/brokers. They offer insurance products and receive customary fees as a result of insurance sales. A conflict of interest exists as these insurance sales create an incentive to recommend products based on the compensation our supervised persons may earn. To mitigate this potential conflict, CIS and its supervised persons will act in the client's best interest.

D. Selection of Other Advisors or Managers and How This Adviser is Compensated for Those Selections

CIS does not utilize nor select other advisers or third party managers. All assets are managed by CIS

Item 11: Code of Ethics, Participation in Transactions, Personal Trading

A. Code of Ethics

We have a written Code of Ethics that covers the following areas: Prohibited Purchases and Sales, Insider Trading, Personal Securities Transactions, Exempted Transactions, Prohibited Activities, Conflicts of Interest, Gifts and Entertainment, Confidentiality, Service on a Board of Directors, Compliance Procedures, Compliance with Laws and Regulations, Procedures and Reporting, Certification of Compliance, Reporting Violations, Compliance Officer Duties, Training and Education, Recordkeeping, Annual Review, and Sanctions. Clients may request a copy of our Code of Ethics from management.

B. Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

CIS does not buy from or sell securities to any of its clients. CIS does not act as a general partner in any partnership in which clients are solicited to invest. CIS does not act as an investment advisor to an investment company that it recommends to its clients.

C. Investing Personal Money in the Same Securities as Clients

From time to time, representatives of CIS may buy or sell securities for themselves that they also recommend to clients. CIS will always document any transactions that could be construed as conflicts.

D. Trading Securities At/Around the Same Time as Clients' Securities

CIS does not utilize a blackout policy; because of CIS's regular review of accounts, there is no set buy and sell period for certain securities, (unless being done in a block trade). Therefore, employees are included with clients when accounts are being reviewed individually and traded as such. CIS strives to not give employees an advantage, but alternatively their association with CIS should not be a disadvantage either. Acting in the clients' best interest will always be the primary concern.

Item 12: Brokerage Practices

A. Factors Used to Select Custodians and/or Broker/Dealers

Custodians/broker-dealers will be recommended based on CIS's duty to seek "best execution," which is the obligation to seek to execute securities transactions for a client on terms that are the most favorable to the client under the circumstances. The client will not necessarily pay the lowest commission or commission equivalent, and CIS may also consider the market expertise and research access provided by the payment of commissions, including but not limited to access to written research, oral communication with analysts, admittance to research conferences and other resources provided by the brokers to aid in the research efforts of CIS. CIS will never charge a premium or commission on transactions, beyond the actual cost imposed by the broker-dealer/custodian.

CIS recommends Charles Schwab & Co., Inc.

1. Research and Other Soft-Dollar Benefits

As further described in Item 14A, CIS receives research, products, or other services from its recommended custodian, broker/dealer or other third-parties; however, these services are not contingent upon us committing any specific amount of business to a broker-dealer in trading commission. There is no incentive for CIS to direct clients to this particular broker-dealer over other broker-dealers who offer the same services. However, because this firm does not have to produce or pay for services or products it has an incentive to choose a custodian that provides those services based on its interests rather than the clients' interests. The first consideration when recommending a custodian or broker/dealer to clients is best execution.

Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services provides CIS with access to Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services' institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services retail investors. These services generally are available to independent investment advisers on an unsolicited basis, at no charge to them so long as a total of at least $10 million of the adviser's clients' assets are maintained in accounts at Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services. Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services includes brokerage services that are related to the execution of securities transactions, custody, research, including that in the form of advice, analyses and reports, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment. For CIS client accounts maintained in its custody, Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services generally does not charge separately for custody services but is compensated by account holders through commissions or other transaction-related or asset-based fees for securities trades that are executed through Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services or that settle into Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services accounts.

Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services also makes available to CIS other products and services that benefit CIS but may not benefit its clients' accounts. These benefits may include national, regional or CIS specific educational events organized and/or sponsored by Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services. Other potential benefits may include occasional business entertainment of personnel of CIS by Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services personnel, including meals, invitations to sporting events, including golf tournaments, and other forms of entertainment, some of which may accompany educational opportunities. Other of these products and services assist CIS in managing and administering clients' accounts. These include software and other technology (and related technological training) that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts, if applicable), provide research, pricing information and other market data, facilitate payment of CIS's fees from its clients' accounts (if applicable), and assist with back-office training and support functions, recordkeeping and client reporting. Many of these services generally may be used to service all or some substantial number of CIS's accounts. Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services also makes available to CIS other services intended to help CIS manage and further develop its business enterprise. These services may include professional compliance, legal and business consulting, publications and conferences on practice management, information technology, business succession, regulatory compliance, employee benefits providers, and human capital consultants, insurance and marketing. In addition, Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services may make available, arrange and/or pay vendors for these types of services rendered to CIS by independent third parties. Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services may discount or waive fees it would otherwise charge for some of these services or pay all or a part of the fees of a third-party providing these services to CIS. CIS is independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. Advisor Services

2. Brokerage for Client Referrals

CIS receives no referrals from a broker-dealer or third party in exchange for using that broker-dealer or third party.

3. Clients Directing Which Broker/Dealer/Custodian to Use

CIS will not allow clients to direct CIS to use a specific custodian or broker-dealer to execute transactions. Clients must use CIS recommended custodian.

B. Aggregating (Block) Trading for Multiple Client Accounts

CIS maintains the ability to block trade purchases across accounts and will do so as often as possible. Block trading may benefit clients by purchasing larger blocks in groups, we do not feel that the clients are at a disadvantage due to the best execution practices of our custodian.

Item 16: Investment Discretion

A. Frequency and Nature of Periodic Reviews and Who Makes Those Reviews

Client accounts are reviewed at least annually by John J. Riley, Managing Member. John J. Riley is the chief advisor and is instructed to review clients' accounts with regards to their investment policies and risk tolerance levels. All accounts at IA are assigned to this reviewer. Pursuant to the CIS investment policy, concerning ETFs, accounts are monitored on an ongoing basis in relationship to the daily resets of the ETFs and their correlation to the long term returns of the index they track.

B. Factors That Will Trigger a Non-Periodic Review of Client Accounts

Reviews may be triggered by material market, economic, or political events, or by changes in client's financial situations (such as retirement, termination of employment, physical move, or inheritance).

C. Content and Frequency of Regular Reports Provided to Clients

Each client will receive a quarterly report from the custodian which is their statement of record.

Item 14: Client Referrals and Other Compensation

A. Economic Benefits Provided by Third Parties for Advice Rendered to Clients (Includes Sales Awards or Other Prizes)

CIS, its IARs and employees may receive additional compensation from various vendors, product providers, distributors, and others. These providers may provide non-monetary compensation by paying some expenses related to training and education, including travel expenses, and attaining professional designations. Investment Adviser might receive payments to subsidize its own training programs. Certain vendors may invite Investment Adviser to participate in conferences, on-line training or provide publications that may further its IARs and employees' skills and knowledge. Some may occasionally provide Investment Adviser gifts, meals, and entertainment of reasonable value consistent with industry rules and regulations.

B. Compensation to Non –Advisory Personnel for Client Referrals

Neither CIS nor its representatives compensate other persons or organizations for client referrals.

Item 15: Custody

When CIS instructs the custodian to deduct its advisory fee directly from client accounts, CIS will be deemed to have limited custody of client's assets and must have written authorization from the client to do so. Clients will receive all account statements and billing invoices that are required in each jurisdiction, and they should carefully review those statements for accuracy.

CIS provides discretionary and non-discretionary investment advisory services to clients. The Investment Advisory Contract established with each client outlines the discretionary authority for trading. Where investment discretion has been granted, CIS generally manages the client's account and makes investment decisions without consultation with the client as to what securities to buy or sell, when the securities are to be bought or sold for the account, the total amount of the securities to be bought/sold, or the price per share. In some instances, CIS' discretionary authority in making these determinations may be limited by conditions imposed by a client (in investment guidelines or objectives, or client instructions otherwise provided to CIS).

Item 17: Voting Client Securities (Proxy Voting)

CIS will not ask for, nor accept voting authority for client securities. Clients will receive proxies directly from the issuer of the security or the custodian. Clients should direct all proxy questions to the issuer of the security.

Item 18: Financial Information

A. Balance Sheet

CIS does not require nor solicit prepayment of more than $500 in fees per client, six months or more in advance and therefore does not need to include a balance sheet with this brochure.

B. Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Ability to Meet Contractual Commitments to Clients

In light of the COVID-19 coronavirus and historic decline in market values, CIS has elected to participate in the CARES Act's Paycheck Protection Program ("PPP") to strengthen its balance sheet. CIS intends to use this loan predominantly to continue payroll for the firm and may ultimately seek loan forgiveness per the terms of the PPP. Due to this and other measures taken internally, CIS has been able to operate and continue serving its clients.

C. Bankruptcy Petitions in Previous Ten Years

CIS nor its management have been the subject of a bankruptcy petition in the last ten years.

Item 19: Requirements For State Registered

A. Principal Executive Officers and Management Persons; Their Formal Education and Business Background

CIS currently has only one management person/executive officer; John Riley. John Riley's education and business background can be found on the Supplemental ADV Part 2B form. James Simmons is also a silent owner of the firm; as a silent owner, he provides no investment advice to clients.

B. Other Businesses in Which This Advisory Firm or its Personnel are Engaged and Time Spent on Those (If Any)

John Riley's other business activities can be found on the Supplemental ADV Part 2B form.

C. How Performance Based Fees are Calculated and Degree of Risk to Clients

CIS does not accept performance-based fees or other fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client.

D. Material Disciplinary Disclosures for Management Persons of this Firm

John Riley has not been found liable in an arbitration claim or a civil, self-regulatory organization, or administrative proceeding.

E. Material Relationships That Management Persons Have With Issuers of Securities (If Any)
